

On Saturday 19th October 2013 the society ran a trip to Newgrange Neolithic tomb in County Meath.

Ten members got up early and travelled down together.

Newgrange is about 5000 years old and is older than the pyramids and Stonehenge and also holds the distinction of being a UNESCO world heritage site.

It is the most well known monument with the Bru na Boinne complex and sits alongside the similar passage tombs of Knowth and Dowth .
